Planters

The Muzo Planters range, designed by Jennifer Newman.

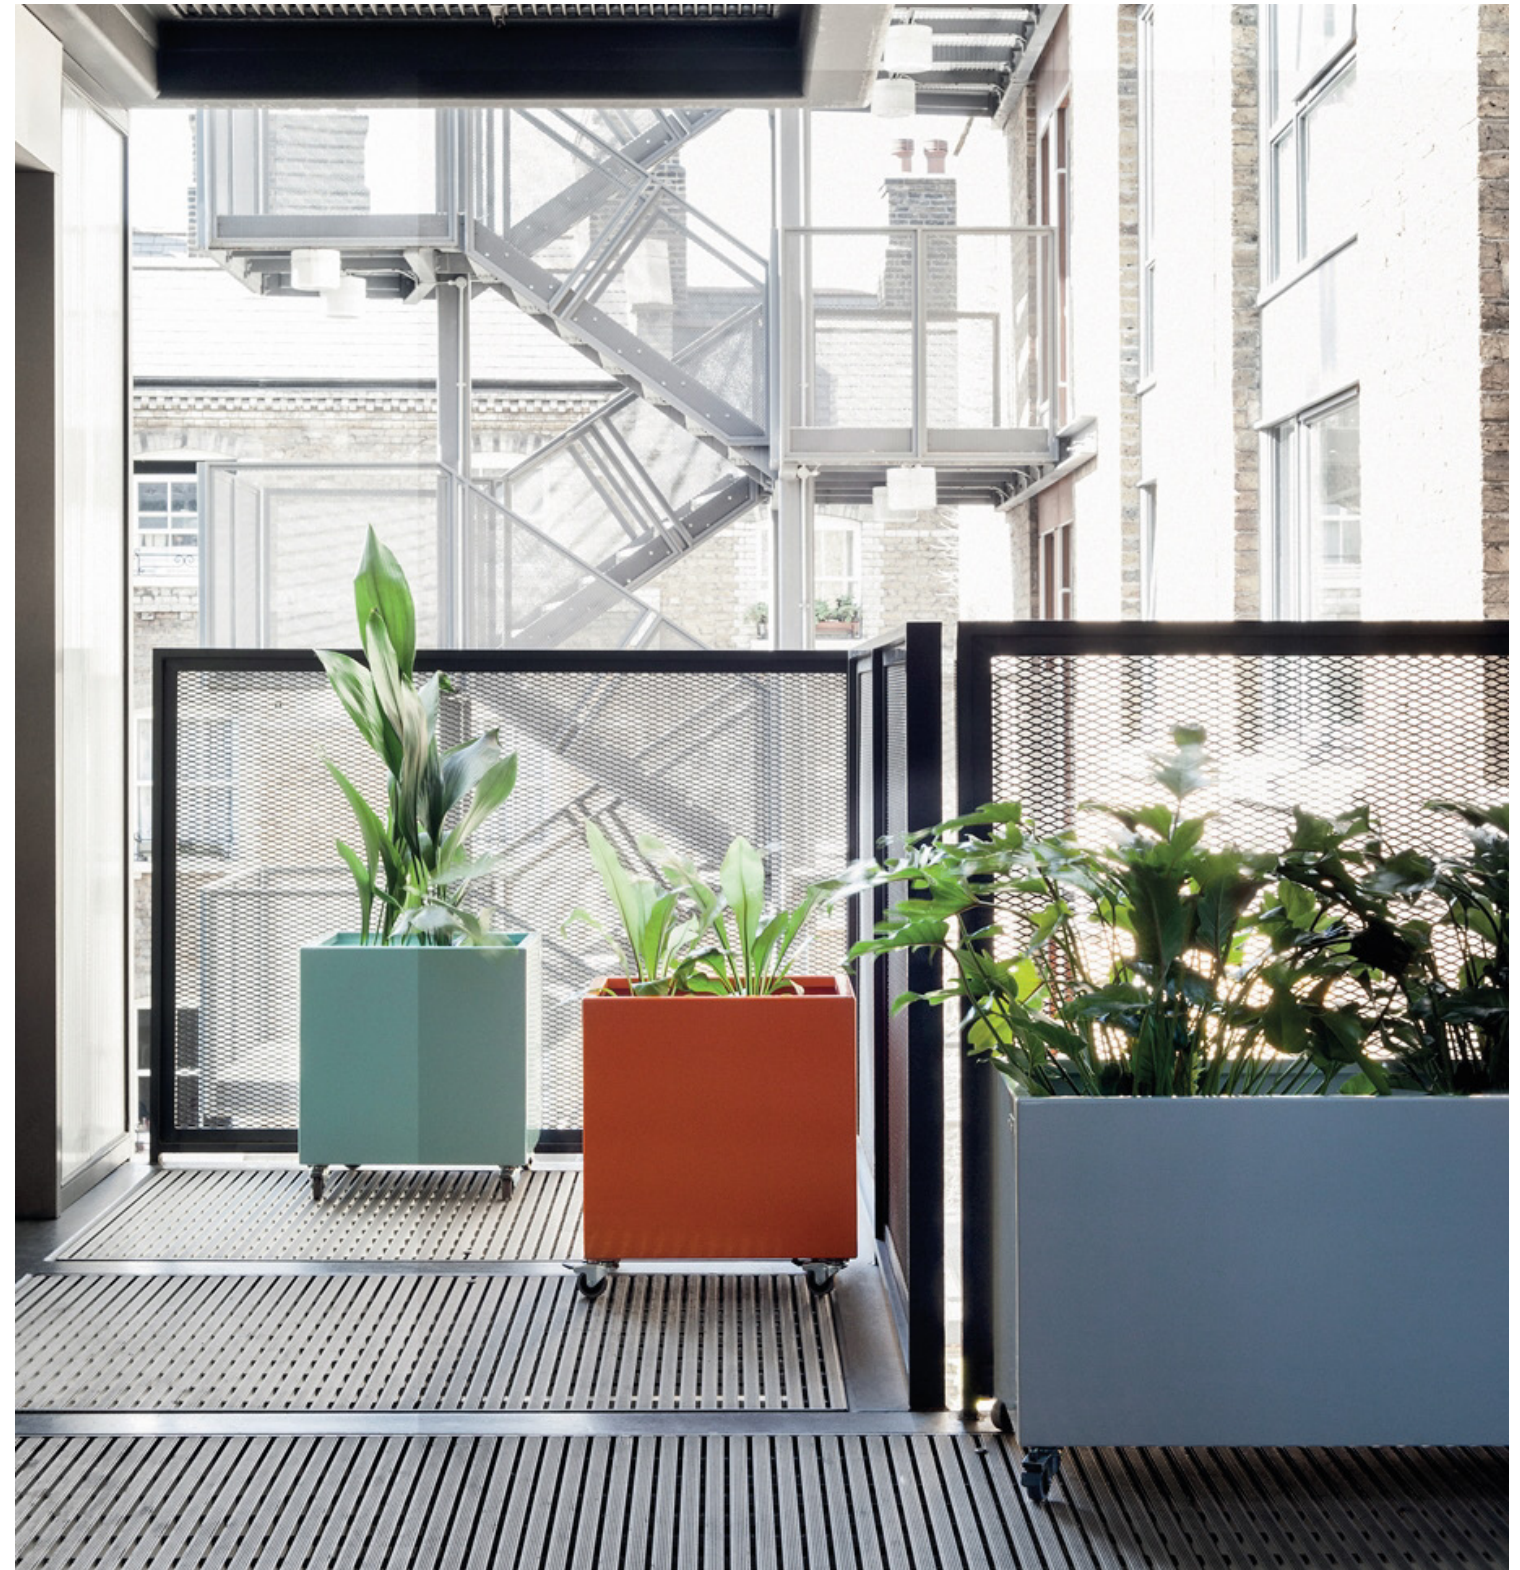

The benefits of indoor plants in the office run deeper than just aesthetics. Biophilic design and natural environments evoke in humans a different response than urban environments. They give us a sense of being away, feeling relaxed and tranquil. Enriching a previously spartan space with plants is scientifically proven to enhance happiness, increase productivity and replenish focus.

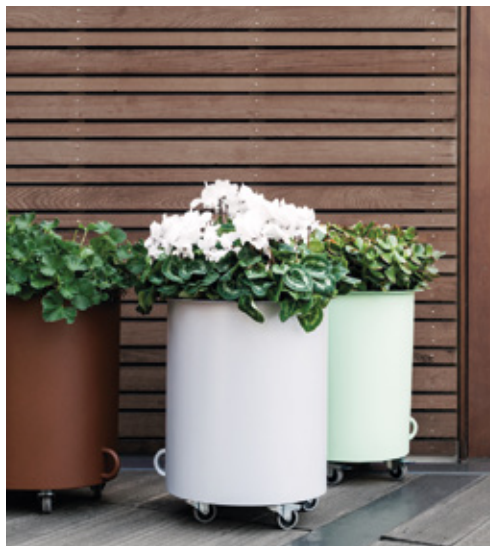

Box planter

Keeping plants and greenery at their best requires a bit of effort, so we've made the job as easy as possible with Box. Lockable casters mean the powder-coated aluminum planter can be wheeled into sunlight or outside for replanting without any heavy lifting. In a range of sizes, if you have a plant in mind, we can provide a Box Planter to suit it!

Drum planter

Much like Box, the idea behind Drum is to help trees and plants live long, healthy lives without backbreaking effort from people. Popular in offices, education buildings, terraces, and break out areas, this nifty vessel is a decent size, easily wheeled around for basking in the sun or outside for replanting, before the casters are locked into place.

Stak-Pot planter

Stak-Pot takes on a modern approach to the traditional plant pot. The hand-spun pot allows us to continue our focus on durability. The lightweight planter is made from rust resistant aluminum making it a perfect enhancement for indoor and outdoor areas. With caster wheels, it's easy to move into the perfect location without any heavy lifting.
